

O'Neal Webster strengthens litigation practice

O'Neal Webster is pleased to announce that Glenis Potts has joined our team as an Associate in the firm's Litigation Department. Glenis's practice focuses primarily on corporate insolvency and commercial litigation.

Prior to joining O'Neal Webster, Glenis practiced as a project attorney at Evolving TecKnologies and Enterprise Development Company Limited in Trinidad. Prior to that appointment, Glenis was State Counsel in the Solicitor General's Chamber in Trinidad where she represented the State in various public law and civil matters. She is admitted to the Bars of Trinidad and Tobago (1999) and the Eastern Caribbean Supreme Court (BVI) (2010).

Glenis is a graduate of the Howard University School of Law, Washington D.C. and the Hugh Wooding Law School in Trinidad and Tobago.

Kerry Anderson, Managing Partner of O'Neal Webster stated:

"We are extremely pleased to have a litigator with Glenis's background and experience on our team. Her eleven years' experience will be an asset to the firm as she provides support to our lead litigators, Paul Webster, QC and Paul Dennis."
